Northside Scene

NEIGHBORNEWSPAPERS.COM

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 2013

Carolyn Young Mentor Walk

he Sandy Springs-based nonprofit Campus Community Partnership Foundation recently hosted the Carolyn Young Mentor Walk at the Georgia Institute of Technology in Midtown to get more students engaged in their education and inspired to stay in school. About 1,000 students in Atlanta Public Schools, DeKalb County Schools and Fulton County Schools, plus with several area Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops and other youth groups, and some of their parents attended the event. The walk is named after Ambassador Andrew Young's wife, who sits on the foundation's board. Information: www.mentorwalk.org. Above left, from left, Carolyn Young and Kashi Sehgal. Above right, Young speaks.

Students participate in a coaching session by Accenture, which sent 150 Former state legislator Sam Zamarripa, trustee of the Anne E. Casey Foundation, employee volunteers to talk to students on the importance of a college education. a walk sponsor, speaks,

